

Calling all Parents

Learn effective, ongoing communication techniques for working with all parents to ensure a positive relationship between home and school resulting in greater student success.

This program will reduce negative parent interactions, create more effective parent/teacher problem-solving conferences, increase positive support for teachers' academic and behavior programs and teacher empowerment.

Teachers are given the skills to communicate effectively with parents so that they can create an environment for the best possible education of their children.

The components of the program include:

- Parent behaviors
- Simulation role-play
- Concern, professionalism and confidence
- Educator roadblocks
- Parent roadblocks
- Consistency and follow-through
- Expectations and contact
- Telephone communication techniques
- Three-way coaching
- Face-to-face conferencing
- Disarming criticism
- Language foggers
- Getting parent buy-in
- Helping parents with their children

Salzman Associates - Tools for Schools

285 Fair Oaks Street • San Francisco, CA 94110

salzmanassociates.com • Tel: 877-725-9626 • Email: info@salzmanassociates.com